

A hand-drawn technical diagram of a circuit board, likely for a school sign. The board is populated with various electronic components including resistors, capacitors, integrated circuits, and a transformer. A central vertical bus of traces connects the top and bottom sections. Three horizontal rectangular boxes are placed across the board, containing the text 'ST. FRANCIS', 'HIGHSCHOOL', and '2010-2011' respectively. The drawing is a black and white line drawing on a light-colored background.

ST. FRANCIS

HIGHSCHOOL

2010-2011

TTYL

Talk To You Later

St. Francis Students are just so hi-tech these days! During the school year so many things happened relating to the cell phone. From education about texting while driving to the introduction of the iPhone 4, our lives are continuously 'cell phone consumed'. BTW, this year's yearbook theme is "TTYL," which as we all know means "talk to you later." It represents the school year coming to a end, but the idea of not saying goodbye forever. 2010 - 2011 was a great school year and to all of the students, TTYL! We will see you later!

Sammy Chandler '12, Emma Riely '13, LaBrea Firman '10, Cole [unclear] '13, Zantinia Harris '11, Jallah Keltie '13, Tyneshia Carter '13, [unclear] Isaac '11, and Anthony Perry '13 all show off their phones for the camera.

[unclear] Schneider '13 is enjoying a video on his phone during a free period

Abas '14 is texting it up as he leaves school for the day

Ana Zapata '13 talking on the phone while going up to Chinese class

Class of 2011

Mustafa Al Majedi

Shahad Alwan

Xan Betzley

Julia Bendon

Cooper Burton

Delaney Bush

Chris Cappiello

Jessica Caudill

Bo Clay

Gaby Cowles

Miles Cowles

Samantha Crooh

Seniors

Ian Davis

Gabe DeSanto

Ibrahim Farag

Kiara Floyd

Ahmed Gardezi

Zsantinia Harris

Sam Henney

Dakota Isaacs

Claire Johnson

Caitlin Joy

Abdallah Kane

Jeremy Kaplan